Concept of the exhibition: In the exhibition, the strategic board game, chess, is used to show the context of complex changes on Earth. Opposite Natturalik, ruler of the air and land, is Sedna, ruler of the sea. In order to maintain balance with nature, each move of the game must be carefully considered, as a change on one side triggers a change on the other. The shaman, Mir-Susne-Hum, is the central mediator. At the same time, pictures from the Arctic show this change. In addition, there is the 50th form, namely the human being.

Live-Stream Vernissage: Wednesday, 18th January 2023, 6 pm Liechtenstein NationalMuseum
You are greeted by Prof. Dr. Rainer Vollkommer, Director of the Liechtenstein NationalMuseum. Jasmin Collini Heidegger, President of the Foundation of the Liechtenstein NationalMuseum, gives the opening words. Martha Cerny, Director of the Museum Cerny, introduces the topic.
